among renewable energy resources biodiesel fuel made from rapeseed is of special importance in Europe. Economical, technological, ecological, and toxicological arguments have been advanced, implying that at present biodiesel is at best just a niche product that can only compete with traditional fossil diesel fuel because of significant tax incentives. Given the present state of knowledge in these very different areas, the decisive question to be asked is whether the competitiveness and thus marketability of biodiesel can be enhanced by biotechnological manipulations of the rape plant.
